COURSE SUMMARY

Philosophy is concerned with questions on how we live, what we can know, and the fundamental nature of reality. In this course we look at four disciplines within philosophy. Each discipline will challenge students to interogate philosophical problems, such as the nature of God, good and evil, the character of justice, and the existence of truth. Philosophy will sharpen students logical and analytical thinking, as well as give students unique skills in written and oral communication. Students who study philosophy will develop the ability to present and argue with clarity and rigour.
